

SALC V, 2015
Norwegian University of Science & Technology
(NTNU) - Trondheim

SECOND CALL FOR PAPERS

The Fifth Conference of the Scandinavian Association for Language and Cognition

The Fifth Conference of the Scandinavian Association for Language and Cognition (SALC V) will take place in Trondheim, August 19–21, 2015, and is hosted by The Norwegian University of Science & Technology (NTNU).

The conference will be organized by the Scandinavian Association for Language and Cognition (SALC), and the Language and Cognition/LAPL research group at the Department of Language and Literature (NTNU).

Keynote speakers:

Seana Coulson, University of California, San Diego

Kenny Coventry, University of East Anglia

Jeanine Treffers-Daller, University of Reading

Adele Goldberg, Princeton University

Carita Paradis, Lund University

The major goal of The Scandinavian Association for Language and Cognition (SALC) is to promote the study of the relationship between language and cognition. This involves any type of research in which language is not treated in isolation (e.g. as a "module"), but both as based on structures and processes of general cognition and social cognition, and as affecting such structures and processes. The association is intended to be a forum for cooperation and exchange of ideas between disciplines, fields of study and theoretical frameworks. The aim of the SALC Conference is to promote the cross-fertilization of linguistics and close fields, such as psychology, cognitive science, the social sciences, and education. We are aiming at presenting interdisciplinary perspectives from all of these fields and encourage submissions from all research areas addressing the interface between language and cognition. The conference is organized into a main general session and 3 parallel thematic sessions:

1. Spatial categories in first and second language development
2. Language disorders in monolingual and bilingual speakers
3. Usage-based approaches to language acquisition

For the main session topics may include, but are not limited to the following themes:

- Developmental deficits and language use
- Language acquisition and cognition
- Language and cognitive development and evolution
- Language and consciousness
- Language and gesture
- Language change and cognition
- Language structure and cognition
- Language use and cognition
- Linguistic typology and cognition
- Psycholinguistic approaches to language and cognition

We now invite submissions of abstracts for paper and poster presentations reporting original research in all the above-mentioned areas. The deadline for abstract submission is January 15, 2015.

A small number of student grants is available upon application for junior researchers who do not have independent funding. More information will be made available later.

Conference fees:

Faculty (SALC member) €150, faculty (non-member) €180

Student/PhD student (SALC member) 60 €, student/PhD student (non-member) €90

Information about payment details and deadlines will be distributed later to all accepted conference participants and will be posted on the Conference website.
